Static-99R Booster Session
6 APA CE Credits

Katherine “Katie” Gotch, LPC, CCSOT, ATSA-F

Abstract:

This booster session is designed for current users of the Static-99R who have already completed training with a certified trainer. The training will provide a brief recap on the evolution of the Static-99R, an overview of the Static-99R items, and offer guidance on recent updates to the coding manual. Guidance on recommended risk communication based upon the nominal risk categories and desistance will also be provided. The session will conclude with scoring and discussion of case examples to enhance understanding of the scale developments.

Clinicians, Supervision Officers, and staff working with adults who have sexually offended / Intermediate

Learning Objectives:

Following the presentation, participants will be able to:

1. Describe the current guidance on appropriate use of the Static-99R with different ethnic groups and transgender persons.
2. Discuss the nominal risk categories and how that influences risk communication.
3. Explain the role of desistance and how the role of desistance impacts risk potential.

Attendees will be provided with copies of the presenters’ materials (PowerPoint slides, images, etc.) for their own reference. Please note that our courses are offered online through an interactive live-feed. Closed captions will be available for all trainings, unless otherwise noted. If you are interested in attending a training but have a special accommodations request, please contact us prior to registration by email (.....) or phone at
